VARSITY CANNOT COMPREHEND COACH SHAUGHNESSY'S SUCCESS

Few of Them Willing to Admit that McGill Would Have Had Much Chance on Dry Ground

"MUD AND MAYNARD" IS THEIR APOLOGY

(By our special correspondent.)
Toronto, October 21st.

The majority of the Varsity team arrived in town yesterday feeling somewhat blue over their unexpected defeat. Cory is the only player whose injuries appear to be more than temporary. The big wing man has torn some ligaments and may not be in the game against Queen's next Saturday.

The prevailing opinion of the team is that it was the state of the field which proved their undoing.

Griffith's expressed himself as not at all disappointed with the showing of the team. The famous coach believes that the fast Varsity team were so handicapped by the heavy going that they could not get their plays working. Griffith's maintains that on a dry field Varsity would have beaten McGill. Pete Campbell, the fast little quarter-back of the blue and white aggregation, stated, that the better team did not win and that the mud and the absence of the speedy Captain from the Varsity half-line were the main factors in McGill's victory. Varsity apparently anticipate two easy victories over the Queen's team but are going to take no chances and will get down to hard practice again to-morrow. Doctor Gallie admitted that the team were fairly beaten, in a hard fought game and doubted very much if they could have pulled off a win on dry ground. McGill graduates in Toronto are exultant over the success of the red and white team.

"Wicky" Wilson who managed the McGill team for two years was very pleased and said when interviewed, "Varsity underestimated the careful preparation made by McGill for this game. The Montreal students have been practicing faithfully for two and two and a half hours every day and condition and superior coaching are responsible for the win. Shaughnessy has fast, strong enthusiastic material to work with and to both coach and men the credit is due."

The Toronto Globe appears with the following harrowing tale this morning:

"Toronto was badly outclassed by McGill University on Saturday, and defeated by 28 to 7. The game was played on what was probably the wettest, dirtiest field ever seen. For twelve hours previous to the opening

MR. WHITMORE SPEAKS TO LARGE CATHERING

First Monthly Supper of Y. M. C. A. Proves Immense Success

The Union last night was the scene of the Annual Freshman-Sophomore Smoker, which was taken place of the rush mainly through the efforts of Professor Barnes and Dean Adams. About 200 attended and the Freshmen were kept busy handing around cigars, cigarettes, clay pipes and tobacco.

Mr. Mitchell, President of the Science Undergraduates Society was the first to speak, saying that he was very glad to see matters had been so amicably arranged between the years and that the rushes had been abolished.

Professor Barnes was the next speaker. After saying that he was entirely in agreement with Mr. Mitchell regarding rushes, citing the case of a man he knew who had been so injured as to have to give up his College career. He then went on to explain his system of finding the proximity of icebergs, recounting his journey when he experimented with this device, and by the aid of a lantern showed for the first time in public the charts made by the instrument on the experimental trip. He also explained the nature of icebergs and their formation. He closed his remarks with showing the "Royal George" the first boat to take the readings of his device in crossing the Atlantic. The remaining numbers on the programme were:--Violio and Piano solo, Messrs Popham and Behekens. Dean Adams was then persuaded to address the students. He recalled many reminiscences of his time. When McGill College was merely a farm and the only building in the grounds was the Arts Building, all the others being scattered in small houses and the Faculty of Applied Science had not yet started. The football campus was once a ploughed field with a ditch across it into which fell Prof. McLeod. The ravine through the grounds under the Union and then joined another at Burnside street. To give the students an idea of the distance of McGill from the grounds Sir William Dawson who lived in the Arts Building, complained to him that the store-keeper's down town refused to deliver goods so far out in the country.

6. Recitation. Mr. Donahue.
7. Address. Doc. Murray.

The first of a series of monthly suppers was held yesterday in Hefath-cona Hall when Dr. Tees was in the chair. Dr. Adams was also present. After supper Mr. Coote announced the continuation of the monthly dinners. On Nov. 18th, the addresses given by members of the University Congress, and for December a lecture, illustrated with lantern slides, will be given by H. B. Ames, M.P., on Ceylon. This will be especially interesting to McGill men as Mr. Ames will describe the work carried out by Murray Brookes.

The address yesterday was given by Mr. Whitmore, who was briefly introduced by Dr. Tees. The speaker strongly commended the apathetic attitude, prevalent among the young men of the present day. The predominant characteristic of the modern college man is his supreme selfishness.

It is a fact, established by individual experience, that those who devote large portions of their time available out of college to the service of the community, always obtain more benefit from his course than those whose spare hours are spent in selfish pleasure of any kind.

There must be something radically wrong with the individual who is willing to sit down and watch the grievous results of our modern economic system as seen in our large cities. Poor housing, bad health and worse morals can all be directly attributed to this cause.

Luckily for our modern civilization business men are coming to see that it is actually to their commercial interest, as well as to their moral welfare, to take an interest in and improve the conditions under which their employees live.

In commerce, as in other matters, things have now come to such a pass that the rescue of the fallen is now an insufficient remedy. We must get to the root of the matter, and remove the causes.

OUR GRADUATES

We have received a letter from the McGill Alumni Association in Chicago, informing us of the election of officers for the ensuing year. We appreciate very much the courtesy of the Association in sending the Daily the above mentioned information and we hope that others will follow suit.

Of late years through the splendid work of the committee who have attended to the compiling of the graduate lists the University has been brought into much closer touch with its Alumni than ever before. It has been felt that the strong ties which bind the sons of McGill to their Alma Mater could be greatly strengthened if the graduates were kept in touch with McGill affairs and the members of their own class and it is with this end in view that the big reunion is being planned for the coming year. From far and near numbers of graduates will return to Montreal and renew those ties of friendship which time has been unable to break altogether. McGill men all over the world watch with pride and interest the steady growth and development of this University. In many distant cities our graduates forgetful from time to time to drink to the health of our Alma Mater and talk over old times in this city and the changes which have taken place since their convocation day.

We feel that this paper can be of great assistance in the good work of keeping the Alumni in touch with this institution and we cordially welcome those intimations, which we from time to time receive, and which testify to the fact that our graduates appreciate the great interest felt by the student body at large in the men who have previously come under the sphere of influence of this University.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

"Mud and Maynard." These are Varsity's two excuses for their defeat on Saturday. Even with a hard dry field and Maynard playing the best game of his career it is a safe bet that McGill would have won by at least twenty points. And with the speed and dradly tackling that the Red and White showed on Saturday, it is more than probable that the dry field would have helped them roll up another ten or fifteen points.

Maynard is a great player, one of the greatest that ever played the game. But it would have taken a dozen Maynards to stop that line on Saturday.

Cuzner deserves great credit for the game he put up. The first following up and tackling of the McGill line gave him few chances but at that he got away for two or three nice runs and caught perfectly. He also displayed great gameness.

One of the most important factors in the game was the unerring accuracy with which the McGill halves returned the kicks when the wings were down the field. This was one of the greatest faults of the back division last year. They almost always tried to run the kick back instead of returning. There is nothing that takes the heart out of a wing line more than having the halves fail to turn and having to run half way back the field. This was precisely what happened to Varsity. Conter, Webster and Cuzner were downed so fast that they seldom had a chance to return and on the few occasions on which they had, displayed poor judgment in trying to run the kicks back. On only three occasions did they run it back any distance. In the majority of cases Paisley and Billington side stepped the Varsity wings, ran it back ten or fifteen yards before returning.

The old, old story of a strong line and a weak back division is a back number this year. Billington, Paisley, Draper and Lee will stand comparison with any back division in the country. Nothing could have been better than their catching on Saturday, some of Billington's running catches were a treat to witness, while Paisley has a fine pair of hands as has ever been seen on the campus. He was as cool as a cucumber and never even looked like dropping a single ball. Billington was acknowledged by the critics last year to be the best kicking half back in the game. His work on Saturday was perhaps even better than his work last year particularly when the state of the ball is taken into consideration. Draper made good in every sense of the word and did all he was called on to do faultlessly. He was used a lot in the trick plays and fitted in to a nicety.

Hilary B. Hall did some of the finest tackling on the field and his defensive game deserves unlimited credit.

Jules Timmins was in the game every minute and had "Lou" Cory marked to a standstill. He was down with the outside wings every time and his tackling was as good ever—which is "enough said."

In an interview after the last practice in Toronto before the McGill game Pete Campbell said they had the best line Varsity ever had. This may be true and it may not but if it is then McGill has a line a full hundred per cent. better than the best that ever represented Varsity.

In all the punting exchanges Varsity lost ground heavily. Billington out-punted Conter by ten or fifteen yards while Paisley's low, bouncing kicks were exceedingly hard to handle on account of the soggy condition of the ball.

Did you notice the way the McGill line and the Varsity was boxed up? When Campbell called for a kick his wings were blocked up so effectively that on very few occasions more than two of them were down the field with the kick. The McGill halves, owing to this, always had lots of time to return. The McGill line on the other hand, were down to a man and the Varsity halves never had a chance to get away.

Montgomery had it all over "Rusty" Bell at centre scrumage. Bell would have been picked for any all-star Intercollegiate team last year but if "Monty" keeps up his present form, Bell will have to give up his laurels. "Monty" follows down like greased lightning and tackles like a ton of bricks. He gets the ball out clean and fast and is always on the ball.

Varsity CANNOT COMPREHEND COACH SHAUGHNESSY'S SUCCESS.

of the game the rain fell in torrents and when the teams lined up at 2:30 they stood in water which was in places six inches deep. The whole field was a sea of mud and water, and made good play an impossibility.

The soggy, greasy field was a greater handicap to Toronto than to their heavier and stronger opponents. Varsity, who depend on speed, passing, running and tackling, never had a chance to do a thing. The heavier stronger, slower McGill team simply shovelled Varsity off the map, and scored almost at will. Every trick play, combination and "stunt" which Varsity had in her repertoire was tried, but none proved effective. The team simply could not get going. They muffed the wet ball on the passes; fell when trying to run or dodge on the line, and were shoved about at will by their heavier opponents. The result was that they found themselves hopelessly outclassed, but it must be said that they fought gamely until the final whistle blew.

McGill started scoring right off the reel, and had eighteen points before Toronto got going at all.

THE HARRIER CLUB

The most successful Harrier run for years took place from the shack last evening at 5 o'clock. Besides Mr. Bailey the trainer, eighteen students turned out for the last practice run before the cross country run on Wednesday afternoon when the first six men will represent the McGill Team at the Intercollegiate Meet on Saturday November 2nd at Kingston. Last evening the 5 1/2 mile course was covered which will be run on Wednesday. The squad started from the Campus along Milon St., up Durocher to Fletcher's Field and across at a good steady pace, though running well within their strength. After passing along Park Ave. and back across Fletcher's Field to St. Catherine Rd. the squad were still going strong. Then turning down Bloomfield Ave. the squad made a spurt for about 100 yards with Coach Bailey leading. After going around Outremont Park by Quebec Ave. they returned along Outremont Ave. to St. Catherine Rd. and back along the same route. The run was very creditable, everyone finishing, and many finishing strong. After Coach Bailey Russell came in first followed fairly closely by Haggie with Struthers a few yards behind. Scott who was out for the first time came in a close fourth followed by Cole, Wall, Wickenden, Hemming, Corbett, Henson, Buchanan, Copeland, Wood, Stevenson, Heaton, Leitch, Reil and Alberga. Walsh and McCreary, who are considered to have good chances of making the team on Wednesday, were not out. Coach Bailey upon being interviewed by the "Daily" representative, expressed his satisfaction at the progress the squad has made, and considers we will be well in the running for the Intercollegiate championship on Nov. 2nd. A close finish for the first six places to represent the team is expected on Wednesday, and judging from the practices an interesting race may be expected.

SCIENCE 1914

At a fairly well attended meeting of Science '14 held yesterday afternoon, three very important items of business were discussed and settled. The election of two members to the Junior Dance Committee resulted in the choice of Mr. McFarlane and Mr. Stanley.

A discussion as to the advisability of having a Science Dinner then occupied the attention of the meeting, and after several men had spoken, and the question thoroughly thrashed ed out, it was decided by a large vote to continue this function so successfully held in past years.

The question as to the advisability of forming a debating club was then raised, as was also the idea of trips to the various points of interest outside the University, and by a vote the members present decided to leave it in the hands of the Year Executive. The meeting then adjourned.

From a paper submitted by a student in psychology: "He laid his head on the table and staggered to the bed."—Indiana.

THE ORPHEUM

After two lively selections by the orchestra the curtain rises to some ragtime tunes and the "two Seebachs" expert bag punchers begin their turn. They amuse the audience with some clever bag punching varied by a song and are followed by "Billy K. Wells" the Hebrew orator who after singing a comic song keeps his audience in fits of laughter by some very muddling but amusing patter and goes off leaving everyone in a very good humor for "Edwina Barry's" Company who give a sketch entitled "The Home Breaker." This sketch centres on a servant girl of a very amorous temperament who quickly has all the male members of the company at her feet and finally ends up by giving a cordial invitation to the male members of the audience to come and join the number of her admirers if they feel so inclined. This is followed by the "Two Real Rubes" who do some eccentric dancing and are followed by "Gillette's Dogs." There are some fifteen dogs who do some amusing stunts and are helped by some monkeys who create more amusement by their disobedience and fighting powers than by their tricks. The curtain falls and the audience is still laughing over the efforts of the owner of the pets to disentangle himself from his monkeys when the "Primrose Four" appear on the scene. This was also a very good act.

THINGS THEATRICAL

ALL STAR COMPANY AT THE PRINCESS

Faversham's Truly Wonderful
Production of Julius Caesar

What may be considered one of the most notable successes achieved in Shakespearean productions was presented last night at the Princess Theatre. It is but very seldom that such an aggregation of truly noted stars has been seen since the days of Edwin Booth and the Boston Museum. Tyrone Power famous for his work as Robert Smith in "The Servant of the House" has added another leaf to his crown of laurel by his masterful interpretation of the most difficult character of Marcus Brutus. Sharing honors with him come Mr. Faversham and Mr. Frank Keenan whose truly excellent exposition of the roles of Antony and Cassius respectively was only equalled by Fuller Mellish's personation of Cæsar. The last of these gentlemen apart from his peculiar physical and vocal qualifications, displayed the highest qualities of finished art in his interpretation of this oft mutilated part. Mr. Faversham, who is manager and director of this company, and to whose zeal and energy for excellency in artistic detail, this colossal production owes its success, has displayed a quality of unselfishness rarely found in theatrical circles in that he has contented himself with this comparatively role of Mark Antony. His work in the funeral oration showed he has lost now of his old-time capabilities or charm for his audience.

Mr. Frank Keenan savors some what of the melodramatic but his interpretation is consistent throughout.

The parts of Portia and Calpurnia were ably handled by Miss Julie Opp and Miss Jane Wheatley.

By all students of Shakespeare and to all lovers of drama Faversham's production of Julius Cæsar will long be remembered.

PINK LADY

The Pink Lady is, without doubt, one of the brightest and best produced musical comedies seen in Montreal for the past few seasons. Full of life and brilliancy from start to finish, it satisfies the most exacting critic.

The plot is an adaptation from the French of "Le Satyre" and is laid partly in the Forest of Compagne in France and partly in the City of Paris. A young man who is about to be married, decides to have one more fling with an old flame of his, and they decide to pass some time at the old inn, "Le Joli Concombre", in this aforementioned Forest. Unluckily for him, however, his fiancée makes a motor trip to the same place, and in order to cover his escapade he introduces his friend to her as the wife of one Dondidier an antique collector of Paris whom he invents as one of his old friends. Things pass off all right, except for some excitement indirectly caused by a Satyr, who dwelt in the forest, kissing the wife of the inn-keeper. This necessitates the calling in of a detective who immediately, for some reason or other, thinks that one of the motoring party is the Satyr, and decides to follow them back to Paris.

Meanwhile, this young man, having got things settled comfortably so far, decides to hasten back to Paris to find the fictitious friend Dondidier. To his surprise and dismay, he finds that there really exists in Paris an antique collector named Dondidier, and he hastens to him with all speed to straighten the matter out for fear his fiancée would find him out. The old collector would at first have nothing to do with his schemes, but on the promise of a rare snuff box, consented to act not only as this young man's friend, but also as the Satyr. Things are badly twisted around for a while, and a great deal of unhappiness caused to some people, but during the Ball of the Nymphs and Satyrs, the secret leaks out, and after much repentance, everything comes out right.

All the musical numbers are bright and catchy. The most applauded ones in Act I being "The girl by the Saskatchewan," "Oh, so Gently," and "When love goes Astraying," "The girl by the Saskatchewan" made a pronounced hit and was encored several times. In Act II the best part was the acting of Dondidier who displayed great cleverness and brought down the house a score of times. The song, "Donny Did, Donny, Didn't" was encored time after time and made a great hit. "The Kiss Waltz," by Miss Hazel Dawn, who played the part of the Pink Lady, and Dondidier was splendid, both the singing and dancing being remarkably clever.

Mr. Labor, who played the part of Dondidier was a great favorite and caused the house roars of laughter time after time. In Act III the song "I Like It," by Dondidier, and the rest of the company was very amusing, the "I Like It," referring to the gay life shown by the Nymphs and Satyrs at the Ball.

Without a doubt, the crowning beauty of the whole performance was the singing of "Beautiful Lady" by Miss Hazel Dawn, Miss Alice Dovey, Mr. Lessett, the violinist and Miss Mae Carmen. This song was encored time after time, and the performance of it certainly justified the encores.

Taken all round, no one should miss this show, for it is full of life and interest from start to finish. The company is a remarkably well-balanced one, the chorus being particularly noticeable, and certainly, those who go, will never regret seeing this company led so well by Miss Dawn.
